CAMRA MEMBERSHIP DOUBLES

In the last decade CAMRA membership has more than doubled from 65,000 to 150,000, with women now accounting for 22% of the membership – a growth of 20,000 female members in the last decade.

There are now more than 1,000 British breweries brewing over 8,000 different real ales. Adults trying Real ale grows from 34% to 53% in last three years.

Despite overall beer sales in Britain experiencing a steady decline, CAMRA (Campaign for Real Ale) welcomed its 150,000th member as increasing numbers of people, particularly women, try real ale.

Overall UK beer sales have reduced in the last three years by more than 500 million pints whilst real ale has outperformed the market and even enjoyed a small increase in 2011. In the same period, more than 250 new real ale breweries have set up business in Britain and new market research shows that the number of people* trying real ale has grown from 34% to 53%. Women trying real ale for the first time has grown from 14% to 34% in this short period.

Colin Valentine, CAMRA's Chairman said, "We're enjoying a genuine and sustained revival in real ale as it shows the way to success for the UK beer market. There are now more than 1,000 breweries brewing in excess of 8,000* different real ales for consumers to choose from. More people are looking for something brewed locally and with so many breweries in Britain, everybody has a local beer to try. It's very exciting that more and more women are trying real ale. Our national drink threw off its flat cap image years ago and now it is increasingly seen as a drink for women as well as men. That trend will help put the whole British beer market back on a track towards growth."

Christine Cryne, a member of CAMRA's National Executive said, "The upsurge in interest in real ale amongst women in the UK is in no small part thanks to the sheer range of beer which is now available. At the Great British Beer Festival this year, there are beers that range from rich and chocolaty Stouts to light and citrusy Golden Ales perfect for summer sipping. It's not a case of whether you like beer or not - but whether you've yet found the right beer for you."

"I think that women are realising that beer is a lower alcohol option than many other drinks and they are associating real ale with social occasions with friends in pubs. It's been great to see the increased number of women attending beer festivals to try the different flavours that are available. With the Great British Beer Festival having a huge variety of beers, we are making it easier by having third pint stemmed glasses so people can experiment to find their perfect real ale!"

How best to find pubs who serve real ale.

On the inside back page of this edition of North Sea Ale, you will find a comprehensive list of pubs that serve real ale in our area. We try to keep this as up-to-date as possible, but it's sometimes a moving feast, particularly in the more rural parts and especially when it gets nearer the winter months. Changes of ownership can also mean a change in the pub's attitude to stocking real ale. We welcome any updates on this from members who live, or are travelling in, the vicinity – we have a very large geographical area to cover and a limited number of local activists.

The very best of these pubs who sell real ale are, of course, also listed in the Good Beer Guide, and the current GBG entries for our area are asterisked on our list. There is now also a mobile app version of the Good Beer Guide, costing just £5 p.a., for those that don't have the fuller paper publication, or don't wish to carry it around with them. CAMRA's latest development is www.WhatPub.com - a web site that provides members with full access to all pubs serving real ale throughout the country – not just GBG entries.

No excuse now for not being able to find a pub selling real ale!

The editor welcomes feedback and would be delighted to publish any correspondence, favourable or otherwise

F Thanks

The Aberdeen, Grampian & Northern Isles branch of CAMRA would particularly like to thank the following organisations for their help with the festival: First and foremost this year's showcase brewery Fyne Ales and our hosts at Pittodrie, Aberdeen Football Club plc. Also Flying Firkin, all the supplying breweries, Hallam Cider and Deeside Drinks Emporium who supplied the beers, cider and perry. Also thanks to Alex at Maritime Scaffolding who support us both literally and figuratively with the scaffolding, Gordon at Arrowdown for the beer vouchers, Paul at Agility Logistics & Dave at HSS for storage, transport and equipment loans, Steve & Rebecca at Xodus for the volunteer shirts, Lorna at Keltec People for the Red Cross provision, Richard at APAL for the carrier bags and Mark at HarrisCaprock for his endless source of contacts. We would also like to thank all those individuals, far too many to list individually, who gave their time, help, knowledge, experience, energy and passion to enable this festival to go ahead.

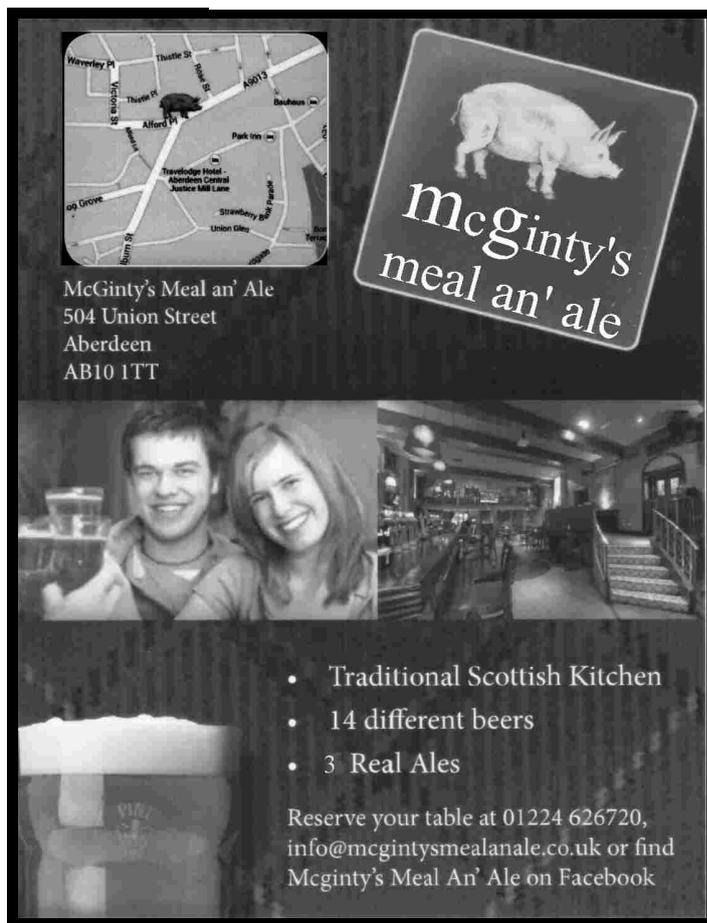

Heroes

The following people put a lot of time and effort into making the festival a success. Without volunteers like these there would be no festival. On behalf of CAMRA we thank you and hope there are even more volunteers next time.

So what did you think of the "Thirst Amongst Equals" logo? Do you think you can do better? If so then send your entries to beerfestival@aberdeencamra.co.uk before 30th November 2013. Entries will need to be in something similar to jpg, tiff, gif file format, a single colour and have sufficient clarity when reproduced no bigger than 3" on a glass. As a rule of thumb a bad pun in the strap line always seems popular.

FINE ALES

Elland 1872 Porter crowned Champion Beer of Britain at the Great British Beer Festival

After a year of local tasting panels and regional heats leading up to the finals, CAMRA, the Campaign for Real Ale, is proud to announce that Elland 1872 Porter was crowned the 'Best Beer' in Britain at the Great British Beer Festival, Olympia, London.

The West Yorkshire brewed real ale was judged the Supreme Champion over a host of other finalists in 7 different beer categories (Bitters, Best Bitters, Strong Bitters, Golden Ales, Milds, Winter Beers, and the Speciality class), including beers from both small microbrewers and large regional brewers.

Colin Valentine, Chair of the competition and CAMRA Chairman, spoke in praise of the winner. He said:

"It was a really tough decision but Elland 1872 Porter is a fantastic beer and a well deserved winner. A 6.5% abv, rich and strongly flavoured porter with flavours of coffee and dark chocolate, this result makes it two years in a row that our Champion Winter Beer has gone on to win the Champion Beer of Britain competition."

Michael Wynnyczuk, Head Brewer at Elland, had this to say,

"I'm utterly shocked. It's a great beer but after we won the Winter Ales competition you wonder about it in the summer GBBF competition, as people may prefer different styles of beer in warmer weather. But we know it's a great beer and we're really proud to be crowned Champion Beer of Britain."

With Coniston Brewery No.9 barley Wine securing the Gold award for 2012, this year's Silver went to Buntingford Twitchell, whilst the Bronze award went Fyne Ales Jarl.

FESTIVAL 2013

First of all CAMRA would like to thank all of those of you who attended the 27th Great Grampian Beer Festival held at Pittodrie Stadium 30th May – 1st June 2013. We hope you enjoyed the event, found some beers, cider and perry that you enjoyed and will be back for more next year. Please don't forget that Real Ale is not just for beer festivals, get down to your favourite pubs and clubs and hustle the licensees to get some of your favourite beers in all year round.

We tweaked the dates to try and tempt more of the students to come celebrate the end of their exams with us before departing for the summer and given the record breaking Friday attendance I think some of them did. Not that attendances were looking so good on what had been a fairly quiet opening day. Once again the attendance on the Saturday continued their slight growth, an ideal opportunity for those who do not want to take part in what can be a hectic Friday crush or if you are travelling from further afield. We opened on the final day with 56 beers and thanks to some steady drinking we only just made it to the end of the open hours with 7 beers left at the very end. That was a bit of a close call so we'll be increasing the order next year in anticipation of a repeat in the demand. And with free re-entry why not come for more than one visit.

The next festival, the 28th Great Grampian Beer Festival is now being planned for May 29-31, 2014. See www.aberdeencamra.co.uk for details.

Getting Ready for 2013

Some 17 volunteers arrived very early at the Richard Donald Stand in the Pittodrie Stadium ready to receive all the deliveries and build the festival prior to the onslaught of the drinkers. It's perhaps as well they arrived early as so did many of the deliveries of beers and glasses. Over the rest of the day almost everything turned up and on time so all those planning hours felt worthwhile. 2013 saw the repeat of bottled beers after reasonable sales again last year along with a cider and perry range to match last year's sales volumes. As is traditional there was the end of day treat of a few pints for the set-up crew.

Two physically less demanding, but very long, days of preparation followed including the small matter of testing all 100+ beers before unleashing them on the discerning drinker! It's a hard job but somebody has to do it.

Beers from far and wide

Beers were sourced from all over the UK: Valhalla (Shetland) in the north to Skinners (Cornwall) in the south, Isle of Skye in the west and Green Jack (Suffolk) in the east. Grampian was represented with beers from Burnside Brewery of Laurencekirk together with Six° north of Stonehaven, Windswept of Lossiemouth, Brewmeister of Keith and Speyside Craft of Forres. The Aberdeen, Grampian & Northern Isles CAMRA branch area also has three breweries in the Northern Isles, Valhalla (Shetland), Orkney and Highland (both Orkney). Once again there were a lot of enquiries as to why there were no beers from BrewDog. To keep the records straight, beers were requested but once again they declined to sell us any, in fact they didn't even reply to any of our enquiries. There were 101 beers from 69 different breweries, including 81 beers and 25 breweries which had not been seen at the beer festival before. Whilst we do not select beers for the benefit of "tickers" it is an opportunity to try out the wares of the newer producers and with so many new breweries, particularly in Scotland, who are willing to supply to the festival, why not? Thanks to the hard working team who spent hours soaking towels in icy-cold water and wrapping up the casks. They battled against hard against frost bite whilst the beers were kept at cellar temperatures during the set up and throughout the event. Such are the efforts required to keep the beer at an ideal drinking temperature.

Festival Featured Brewery

The festival's featured brewery was Fyne Ales from Cairndow at the head of Loch Fyne who had six of their beers Jarl, Avalanche, Hurricane Jack, Highlander, Sublime Stout & Superior IPA on offer. Other notable breweries that were having a first outing were Alechemy, Ayr, Eden St Andrews and MoR.

As well as the festival and showcase brewery logos each glass was printed with the message "Don't Drink & Drive" as part of our joint campaign with Grampian Police road safety division. After all we want you to have a good time, get home safely so that you can come and join us again and again.

Recruitment

The festival also attracted a large response from the licensed trade, both local publicans and the not-so-local brewers. Overseas visitors from the USA, Denmark, Norway and even England (some bits of which are further away than some parts of Norway) made themselves known. But who travelled the furthest?

And the winner was

As usual we had our own competition for the punter's favourite beer. This year's winner was Cromarty Brewing's Rogue Wave making it two in a row after their triumph with Happy Chappy last year. Titanic's Cappuccino & Bulmastiff's Welsh Black shared the runners up spot with the fastest selling beer being Mordue's A'l Cherry Pet.

The lucky winner of the voter's prize was festival regular Dave Beattie. Lucky Dave got to enjoy a case of bottled beers kindly donated by Fyne Ales for his efforts.

Chancers

It was very encouraging to note once again the number of votes cast. Sadly as always there were several attempts to cheat by casting multiple votes in an attempt to either change the result or increase their chances of winning the voter's prize of a case of bottled beers. The voting scrutinisers weeded out your entries and binned them. For some of you repeat offenders it has become something of a traditional sport. You lost again! Let's name and shame some John & Lisa, M Simpson, D Gibson, Michael A Thomson, KP, Graeme Fyfe, McAuley, D Scott, S Davidson, M McKenzie, M Gowers, McKay, Lyon, Law, Ryan and possibly the most prolific ever Graham Westland who all tried to cheat by multi-voting but none of your votes counted ... the list goes on, no wonder it takes so long to find the true winner. Do us all a favour and pack it in.

Charity

As usual the festival played host for a local charity to raise funds. This year it was the turn of Barnardo's Scotland, who collected over £1,300 in cash and unused beer token donations, to be spent helping all those needy kids. On their behalf we would like to thank all those who generously donated.

Deeside Brewery News

The Brewery has finally made its long-awaited move to its new premises to the north of Banchory (just along from the Cowshed restaurant). They are in an old farm building and have started production there. They have two new full-time employees – the new brewer came straight from the Heriot Watt brewing course, and the sales person is ex Marcliffe Hotel.

Production is going at full tilt, although most sales are still in bottles or keg, with Macbeth the only regular product in cask, although occasional brews of Talorcan and Laf will be cask as well. Deeside Lager is by far the main product. A new American style pale ale, reputedly very like the popular Nechtan brand, has been spotted, bearing the name Deeside S w i f t .

This year's Deeside Beer Festival was postponed by a month from its originally planned July date, but was well attended when it was held on Saturday 17th August at the Potarch Hotel again, featuring a variety of Deeside ales, together with some from other local breweries, plus live music.

FINANCIAL CORNER

CAMRA MEMBERS INVESTMENT CLUB (“CMIC”)

This has been running since 1989 and there are now 4,000 members of the Club nationally. Total funds held in breweries now amount to £16m. and the Unit price has risen by over 30% in the last year. The Club organises brewery tours for the members every year, one of them overseas. It is open to all CAMRA members, each of whom is allowed to make monthly, quarterly or annual payments to the Club. Each member can invest a maximum of £2,000 p.a. (£166 per month). The minimum investment is just £5 per month. More details available at <http://www.cmic.uk.com/>

LOCAL BREWERY FINANCIAL NEWS

Whilst the national picture is a very healthy one financially, more locally some of the smaller microbrewers in Scotland still struggle to make ends meet, judging by recent published results. The exception to this has been Brewdog, who published their annual results for 2012 a few months ago. These showed an 80% increase in sales on the previous year - up to over £10m. now. Export sales - mostly to Europe - were up 70% to over £4m. Their Gross Profit stayed at the same percentage, but pre-tax profits increased by just £62K to £486K. 2012 was the year of Brewdog's large investment in new facilities at Ellon, plus 6 new beer bars - a total investment of well over £7m. No dividends were paid and the company remains under the control of founders James Watt and Martin Dickie. The number of employees doubled to 126.

Brewdog's size necessitates disclosure of such information, but most of the other Scottish brewers are much smaller and, as such, less information is readily available, but amongst those who have recently published results, Fyne Ales, Stewart Brewing and, oddly enough Isle Of Skye, despite the fact that their planned merger with Arran didn't go ahead, all seem to be fairly sound financially.

REAL ALE OUTLETS

Below is a list of outlets that sell real ale which are known to the Aberdeen, Grampian & Northern Isles branch of CAMRA. CAMRA is in no way recommending all of the pubs in this list. If you want a list of recommended pubs you will need to buy the Good Beer Guide. The pubs are placed in alphabetical order by location and then pub. If you know of any pubs that sell real ale, in our area, which are not on this list, or any pubs on this list that no longer sell real ale please contact the editor. Your help is much appreciated
